

FIVE FEET OF SOLID ROCK BARS WAY TO COLLINS' CAVE PRISON

Workmen Encounter New Obstacle
When Rescue This Morning Seemed Only Few Moments Away

MAY REACH CAVERN TONIGHT

(By United Press)
At the mouth of Sand Cave, Feb. 16—One man working with hand tools in a cramped position at the head of the lateral drift driving toward Floyd Collins, must make his way through five feet of solid rock before the cavern that may hold Collins is reached.

Just as victory seemed to be within the grasp of workmen, the fate which repeatedly blocked their efforts checked their program again.

It was supposed at noon that the pitman would pierce the cavern at any moment. The noon communiqué, however, indicated that the diggers will not reach their goal before evening in view of the new obstacle.

What they will find at the end of the five foot tunnel yet to be carved, is not known. Pneumatic hammers cannot be brought to play in the man hole because of the vibration that it sets up. The narrowness of the bore prevents more than one man at a time working. Workmen expect to strike within ten feet of Collins.

If Collins is alive physicians will administer stimulants and work with him underground until they have exhausted their resources. Then he will be taken to the shaft and borne up the winding path and to the Red Cross tent.

At 10 o'clock timbering of the shaft was finished and the pick and shovel crews returned to the bottom.

Timbering operations had taken more time than was expected.

At 10:30 the bucket brought up the first load of sandy-like material, causing observers at the head of the shaft to believe the crews at the bottom had struck the anticipated layer of sandy material lying between them and the cavern.

The clay character of this material corresponded with the nature of the rock geologists had expected to surround Collins' prison.

A telephone wire was strung to the bottom of the shaft shortly after 11 o'clock. It was presumed directors of rescue work were planning to

PERSONAL PROFIT IS NOT CONSIDERED

Dr. N. G. Wickwire Points Out Sole Purpose of Quarantine is to Protect Poultry Industry

EGGS CAN'T BE SHIPPED IN

Disinfecting of Poultry Dealers' Premises and Equipment to Begin—Survey Ends in Jackson

"The European fowl pest quarantine will not be bent or broken for the personal profit of anyone."

This was the edict of Dr. N. G. Wickwire, federal veterinarian, after he was importuned today by a dealer to be permitted to sell eggs shipped here from Decatur county.

"I asked the dealer who wanted to sell eggs shipped here from the county on the south, whether he could guarantee that they were free from the fowl pest," Dr. Wickwire continued. "He could not, and since we do not know, it is not right to take the chance of spreading the disease in Rush county after the poultry raisers of the county have been so considerate and helpful in enabling us to make the survey of the county."

"Furthermore, we expect to protect the interests of the Rush county poultry raisers because they have cooperated in every way so that the survey, in search of the disease, could be made with the greatest possible speed. It is not fair, aside from the danger entailed to permit eggs from outside counties to be placed on sale here, when

Collins Dead

BULLETIN

(By United Press)

At The Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 16—Brigadier General Kehoe of Kentucky Nat. Guard, this afternoon declared that Floyd Collins was dead. Official statement of General Kehoe said there was a strong odor about Collins' body, and that decomposition had apparently set in.

At The Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 16—Official announcement at 3:45 p. m. today said Collins had been found.

The announcement said that Collins was believed dead. Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt, E. S. Posey, H. T. Carmichael and Dr. W. D. Funkhouser joined in making the announcement.

No doctor has yet examined Collins, it was announced.

The announcement coming a few moments after authorities indicated Collins would not be reached before midnight, brought terrific excitement among the crowd gathered outside. Soldiers guarded the shaft.

Persons on the surface were notified that the workmen had crashed through the roof of the cavern and were close to the passage.

Carmichael went down the shaft to make an inspection. A few minutes later Carmichael returned to the surface and summoned three other men. They walked out on the track used by train cars to get away from the dirt from the rescue shaft operations.

After a moments consultation they walked back toward the mouth of the shaft and Carmichael said to the reporters: "We have found Collins and

THE BUSY MAN'S NEWSPAPER

RALPH H. ELWELL FINED IN COURT

Washington Township Farmer is Found Guilty of Assaulting his Wife by Judge Sparks

JURY CALLED, BUT NOT USED

Wade Trischman is Arrested on Grand Jury Indictment, Charged With Theft of Shotgun

Ralph H. Elwell was tried this morning before Judge Sparks on a charge of assault and battery, and was found guilty, receiving a fine of $25 and costs.

The charge was preferred last October by his wife, Elva Loraine Elwell, who charged in the affidavit that he struck and abused her. The parties are well known residents of Washington township.

The jury had been summoned for the case, but was not used, and the facts were presented to the court. The case required all morning for trial, with considerable evidence being introduced.

The testimony of Dr. R. O. Kennedy, physician, stated that when Mrs. Elwell presented herself after the alleged attack, that she was bruised about the face, right arm, and neck, and that she suffered a broken rib.

The third arrest on the grand jury indictments was made late Saturday, when Wade Trischman was arrested at Knightstown and returned to jail here. He is charged with grand larceny, the indictment accusing him with the theft of a shotgun, belonging to Ralph Moffitt, living in northern Rush county.

A complaint has been filed by Winnie P. Barlow against Ransey Barlow, the action being proceedings supplementary to execution. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff was granted a court judgment for $1,750 in the local court some time ago, and the judgment has not been made.

The action is to force the payment, and serve execution on property owned by the defendant. The hearing on the matter has been set for February 21.

OFFICERS, TEACHERS TO MEET

Officers and teachers of the First Presbyterian Sunday school will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the second floor of the Farmers Trust company building to act on matters of business and to hear reports from different classes.

ASSEMBLY BOARD ORGANIZES

Dr. J. B. Kinsinger Elected President of Chautauqua Association

Robert E. Mansfield, retiring president of the Rush County Chautauqua Association, announced the reorganization of the board of directors for the 1925 chautauqua today.

Dr. J. B. Kinsinger has been elected president to succeed Mr. Mansfield and J. T. Arbuckle was re-elected vice president. A. M. Taylor was chosen as secretary to succeed Donald D. Ball, who served last year, and B. L. Trabue was chosen treasurer again.

The new president will appoint committees soon and preparations will be started for the year's session of the assembly, which will be held at the coliseum in Memorial park in August.

MRS. CORA REA, 56, EXPIRES AT HER HOME HERE SUNDAY

Resident of This City For a Number of Years, but Formerly Lived Near Falmouth

FUNERAL TO BE AT FAIRVIEW

Mrs. Cora Kirkpatrick Rea, age 56 years, died at her home, Main and Thirteenth streets, Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, death being caused from a prolonged illness.

The deceased had been in poor health for several months, and had taken treatment at the Mayo Brothers sanitarium, in an effort to regain her health.

She was a well known woman of this city, having lived here for a number of years, and prior to that, resided near Falmouth. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Kirkpatrick of near Falmouth, and a daughter Mrs. Loren Meek of this city.

She also is survived by four sisters and a brother. The sisters are Mrs. Alice Eakins of this city, Mrs. Abner Ging, Mrs. Erban Vickrey and Mrs. Emma Saxon and a brother, David T. Kirkpatrick, all of the Fairview vicinity. A grand daughter, Miss Elsie Ward, also survived.

Funeral services will be held at the Fairview cemetery church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be made in the cemetery nearby.

GING HIGH SCHOOL GIRL IS VICTORIOUS

Miss Naomi Nash is Elected Representative From Rush County to Junior Legislature

WINS ON THE 14TH BALLOT

Five Candidates Start in Race, With Rushville Substituting After Being Eliminated

Miss Naomi Nash, a Junior in the Ging high school, was elected representative from the Rush county schools, to the Junior General Assembly, to be held in Indianapolis next month, and her election was made on the fourteenth ballot at the county convention held Saturday.

Twelve delegates represented the county convention here, and a spirited contest resulted. Five candidates were placed in order at first: Harold Stiers, of New Salem; Malcolm Small of Carthage; Arthur Kirk, of Webb, Lawrence Davison of Rushville and Miss Nash of Gings.

Miss Nash received six ballots on the first two rounds of voting, but 7 was the required number to elect. Stiers went out on the fourth ballot, when he and Davison were voted upon for the low candidate.

Davison in turn was dropped on the seventh, as the rules provided that the low man was to be dropped at that time. In his place, Lamoine Perkins of Rushville was substituted, and he also was dropped on the ninth, with Emily Maunz being placed in the race.

At the end of the twelfth ballot a ten minute recess was taken, and voting resumed. Arthur Cortner of Rushville was also placed in the race. On the fourteenth ballot, Miss Nash won out, when she received 7 votes. Kirk finished second with 3, and Small and Cortner each had one vote.

Miss Nash made a talk after she was elected, and she will serve as Rush county representative in the assembly. The assembly will be held in the state house, in the room now occupied by the legislators, and the high school legislature will enact laws and spend a week in that capacity, presenting bills and following the routine of work which has been transacted by the regular members of the state legislature.

MEN TO BE WELCOME, HOWEVER

"No Man Wanted" is Name of Farce to be Presented Next Monday

"No Man Wanted," is the title of a farce to be presented at the Main Street Christian church next Monday evening in connection with Ye Old Folks concert, but that is not to be taken literally.

All of the men who have the price of admission will be welcomed at the door by a reception committee, and those who are arranging for the entertainment guarantee that they will get their money's worth.

The concert will include the old favorite songs and they will be presented by local artists in costume. Mrs. C. E. Walden is arranging the program. The proceeds will be used by the Dr. Gilbert class in local charity work.

SAFETY BILL IS KILLED IN SENATE

Attacked as an Attempt in Disguise to Create State Constabulary, on Second Reading

COMPENSATION BILL ADVANCE

Would Increase Maximum from $13.50 to $16.50 for Loss of Time—Hit as Labor Measure

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—Attacking the Penrod safety bill as an attempt in disguise to create a state constabulary, Senator Nejdil, republican leader, succeeded in killing the measure when it came up for second reading today in the state senate.

The bill was an administration measure recommended by Governor Jackson's survey commission, as a matter of efficiency and economy. It would have created a director of public safety, combining under him the present departments of state police, factory inspection, boiler inspection, fire prevention and that of women and children, eliminating the department of oil inspection.

The senate today advanced the bill for increased workmen's compensation bill a step nearer passage in face of bitter opposition.

A majority committee report for passage of the bill with amendments was adopted.

The measure, introduced by Senator Alldredge of Anderson, would increase the maximum compensation from $13.50 to $16.50 weekly for the loss of time. It would also increase the maximum indemnity from $5,000 to $16,500.

"This bill is another cunning step on a part of a certain element of organized labor to drive another wedge to further intimidate industry," Senator Inman of Danville, who opposed the bill most bitterly, declared. "It is another effort of labor to take over industry."

He said the vast majority of labor which is unorganized was opposed to the bill.

Senator Nejdil, of Whiting, said that in view of the fact that seventy percent of the population of the state labored for their livelihood, a measure of this kind should be supported.

Old age pensions were given favorable action in the senate when it adopted a committee report without recommendation. The senate took this action when the president of the senate ruled that a committee report without recommendation on the bill which was introduced by Senator Nejdil, meant passage. The bill is now ready for second reading.

Two bills for establishment of the county unit system of education are ready for introduction in the senate, it was learned.

Senator Stelle of Knox has a bill which would not only establish the county unit, but also would abolish the office of township trustees and organize the state board of education.

Senator Holmes of Gary has another bill providing for referendum by counties on the county unit in the 1926 general election. It provides township trustees shall constitute the first county board in counties which adopt the plan.

FINISHES SERMON SERIES ON 'ANGELS'

The Rev. E. G. McKibben Preaches Fourth and Concluding One at First U. P. Church

OTHER CHURCH SERVICES

Fourth of Sermon Series on "That Which is Lost" at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal

The Rev. H. W. Hargett preached another of the series of Sunday evening sermons on the general theme, "That Which is Lost," at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, before a large and attentive congregation Sunday night.

The Rev. E. G. McKibben of the First United Presbyterian church has also been preaching a series of Sunday evening sermons on "Angels," and last night he gave the fourth and concluding one on the subject, "The Services of Angels."

A large audience heard the concert given by the Cole orchestra and chorus at the Main Street Christian church Sunday evening. Each number on the program was splendidly rendered, especially the solo features. Dean F. D. Kershner of Butler college spoke at the Christian church at the morning hour.

"The Marks of a Christian" was the theme of the Rev. R. W. Sage at the First Baptist church Sunday morning.

Good attendance was reported at Sunday school and church services all over the city Sunday.

St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal

"Lost: A Successful Business Man," was the subject of the Rev. H. W. Hargett's sermon delivered Sunday evening at the St. Paul's Methodist church. The text was taken from Luke 19:10 "For the son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost." He said in part:

"Old yet ever new is the story of the lost. The Bible is not ancient history alone but present day history as well. No age, no country, no city, no village has been without its lost men. The text was spoken of a lost business man. Over his door was a sign, 'Yeacheus Collector, General for Jericho.' Was he successful? Decidedly so. Look at his big house, his big estate, his big bank account. He was not a drunkard, not a criminal, not a 'down and out' but an 'Up and In.' Can such men be lost? The world is very slow to grant that, that which it calls success, God may call failure and that which it calls gain, God may call loss. Man asks 'What have you?' God asks 'What are you?'

FEWER HOGS RAISED DUE TO CORN PRICES

Reduction of 17 Percent in Number of Sows Kept for Spring Farrowing in 1924

FARMERS ARE PESSIMISTIC

American Pork Production is Dominated by What Happens in Corn Belt—Prices Improved

(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—The manner in which the markets have absorbed the heavy and sometimes record breaking receipts of hogs for several weeks without corresponding breaks in price is explained largely by the increasingly prevalent idea that there are fewer hogs in the country than there were at this time a year ago.

This idea has a foundation of hard fact. The corn belt produced from ten to eleven million fewer hogs in 1924 than in 1923.

Farmers became pessimistic about the hog outlook as the year progressed. They made heavier reductions in hog breeding operations the latter part of the year than they did during the early months.

There was a reduction of 17 per cent in the number of sows kept for spring farrowing purposes in 1924 and a reduction of 30 per cent in the number of sows kept for fall farrowing the same year.

Weather conditions were favorable, however, during the fall farrowing season, and larger litters than usual were saved.

The result was that while there was a reduction of 30 per cent in the number of sows kept, there was a reduction of only 24 per cent in the number of pigs saved.

The increasingly firm undertone that has characterized the corn market during the past few weeks has had the usual effect on the outlook for hog production in 1925.

Farmers in the corn belt are planning on keeping ten per cent fewer sows for spring farrowing this coming spring than they had last spring, according to a survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

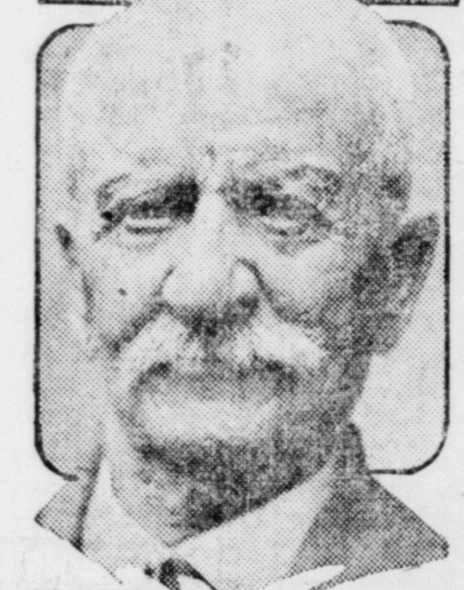

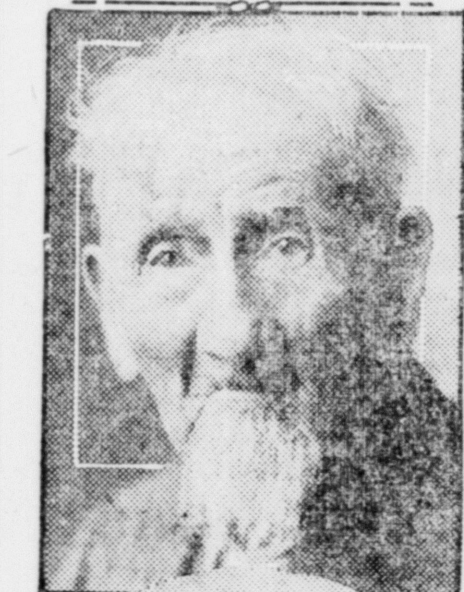

Considering this data and past experience there will probably be a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent in the number of sows that will farrow this spring in the corn belt states.

American pork production is dominated by what happens in the corn belt, and a similar situation may be expected throughout the country.

Much comment has been made in newspapers throughout the country concerning increased prosperity for farmers. Many farmers in the corn belt, and especially in Indiana and a couple of other states which have unusually poor corn crops last fall failed to come in for their share of the prosperity.

Corn prices have improved, it is true, but this does not help the farmers of Indiana, where between 85 and 90 per cent of the corn raised is fed to livestock.

ASSESSED VALUES LOWER THAN SALES

Reports State Increasing Prosperity of Farmers Has Tended to Stabilize Farm Values

BOARD COMPILES FIGURES

Reappraisal Which was Fixed by Legislature for 1926 Ordered by 1925 Board at Request of Gov.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—Assessed values of real estate in Indiana during 1924 continued below sales values, according to figures being compiled by the state tax board today preliminary to the 1925 reappraisal.

This is true both in rural and urban values, the figures show, despite the fact that many who urged that the board order a reappraisal in Indiana for this year declared that values of farms especially, at which they were assessed were higher than at which they are being sold.

Reports are being received by the tax board that increasing prosperity of farmers has tended to stabilize farm values in many localities which were headed downwards a year ago.

The reappraisal which was fixed by the legislature for 1926 was ordered by the board for 1925 at the request of Governor Jackson. Candidates in both political parties promised a reappraisal this year, however, during the last campaign.

In 1909 real estate transfers during 1924 in 17 counties the proceeds totaled $5,974,417 while the assessed valuation of the property sold totaled $4,607,208, or over $1,300,000 less than actually obtained for the property.

In 48 cities and towns, a total of 1012 real estate transfers were recorded. The transactions involved $3,453,628. The assessed valuations of the property involved totaled $2,754,892. This was $700,000 less than the total amount obtained from the sales.

FINISHED SERMON SERIES ON 'ANGELS'

"What is it 'to be lost.' Does it refer to the state of the dead who have rejected the divine mercy? Death does not start the ruin, it only reveals it. What man is lost who is where God cannot use him. The coin was lost when it rolled from the woman's hand under the furniture and could not be put in circulation. The value of a man's life is found in terms of his relationships with others. As son, as brother, as father, as citizen, as neighbor, as employer, as employee, he counts. If these contacts are Christianized he is where God can use him. If not he is lost to the plan and purpose of God, no matter how big his auto or his business."

"A man is lost, when he has lost the sense of divine direction and is traveling away from God. He is lost when he permits himself to fall into the grip of forces which left to themselves will bring destruction."

"Pat fell from the top of the Woolworth building in New York. A friend from an office halfway down called out, 'How are you enjoying your trip?' Pat replied 'I'm having the time of my life.' But the time of Pat's life soon ended in a red spot on the pavement. In the grip of appetite, passion, evil habit, some people have thought that they were having the time of their lives. In reality they were lost because of being in the grip of forces bearing them to certain destruction."

"How are men lost? By thoughtlessness. They wander as did the sheep led by chance and desire. They stray away from restraint to liberty, then to license and bondage. They are lost by the carelessness of others. They are lost by their own willfulness as was the Prodigal Son. In this 'Far Country' Winston Churchill describes Hugh Paret, the successful man, who willfully seeks material success at the expense of the ideals and principals of his noble father. He accepts the nomination for governor of the state. In an address of his rival, he feels himself in the presence of something bigger than his mercenary ideals. He realizes that with all his wealth and power he has found only the husk of things and that salvation is the continuous development of the qualities that make manhood."

How may the lost be saved? The son of man came to save us from sin to righteousness from selfishness to magnanimity, from littleness to largeness, from hallowness to greatness, from defeat and death to liberty and to life.

First Presbyterian

"How Christ Transforms Men," was the sermon subject at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning when the Rev. Gibson used as a text, 2 Cor. 3:18, "We all with unveiled faces beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord, are transformed into the same image from glory to glory." He said in part:

"The shining face should be the possession of every man, woman and child who has looked into the face of Jesus."

"However dark the cloud may be which sin has thrown over our countenance, his life has the power to remove the veil, by the transformation of our inward character."

"Our text takes us back to the time when Moses was on the mount, communing with God. He received the two tablets of stone. When he came down his face was shining by reason of his communing with God."

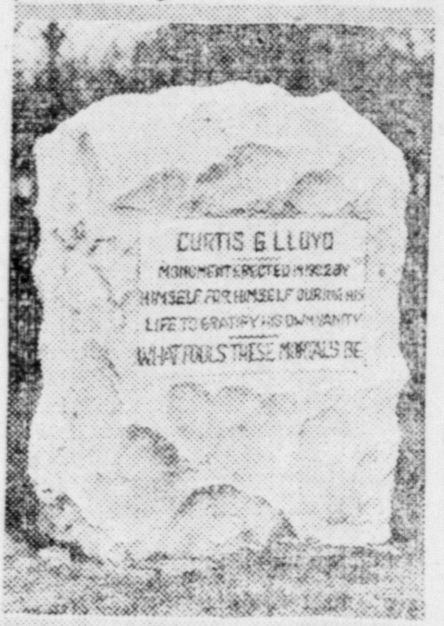

"If we have assembled in the right spirit this morning, to worship, cares should banish, the blotches of sin should disappear, sorrows should vanish and there should be the glow on every face. Let us see. God's transforming power through nature as he brings it to bear on man. Take for example, the wind. How playfully it fans the cheek! It whips among the treetops, waves the meadows and the golden grain."

"Now look at it changing the destinies of nations. Herodotus tells us how Persia determined to humble Greece. She brought together an army of 2,000,000 men and a navy of 1,200 vessels. The earth trembled at their approach and the hour of doom for Greece seemed to be at hand. But God was on his throne and sent a great wind that dashed the navy against the rocks of Greece and Persia stood humbled before the world and God."

"When Philip II, tried to overthrow England a storm overthrew the Spanish Armada, and the religious influence of England rather than that of Spain dominates the world."

"It was a rain that caused the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo, again giving the ascendancy to the English. Victor Hugo says 'It was a day of destiny and the force which is above man produced that day. On

Vanity's Marker

"Born in 1859. Died 60 or more years after. The exact number of years, months and days, nobody knows and nobody cares. Monument erected by himself, for himself, during his life to gratify his own vanity. What fools these mortals be." That's the inscription Curtis Lloyd of Cincinnati has had placed on his monument at Crittenden, Ky. Lloyd is an authority on fungi and a chemist.

that day the perspective of the human race was changed."

"But God's greatest transforming power is through men. Humboldt says: 'The finest fruit earth holds up to its Maker is man.'"

Shakespeare says: 'What a piece of work man is. How noble in reason. How infinite in faculty.' To this man as he first came from the Master's hand, God said: 'Replenish the earth and subdue it.' But man failed miserably and God mirrored himself in the life of Jesus, that knowing him and studying him we might be transformed into the same image, from glory to glory."

"Look at the product of his transforming power. Notice the twelve members of his cabinet. 'Within thirty years they had attacked the legalism of Moses, the sensualism of Diana, the marble gods of Athens and the iron gods of Rome.' They were not men of genius. There was just a new dynamic in them."

"Livingston bowed by the side of the African dying with disease because he had learned the sympathy of Jesus. The stubbornness of Saul was transformed into the apostle Paul."

"This same power transformed Jean Valjean until he went and took his place in the prison by the side of the one who had been arrested in his stead, and his face was transformed like that of Moses'."

First United Presbyterian

The sermon Sabbath morning at the First United Presbyterian church delivered by the pastor, the Rev. E. G. McKibben, was based on Mark 1:19 "and they knew not what to answer him."

"Contented sinners will be without excuse for their failure to accept Jesus Christ," he said, and Christians will not be able to answer him for their failure to live up to their light."

In the evening the pastor delivered the fourth and final number of the series on Angels. The first topic was "The Angels;" the second "Angel's Food;" the third "Angel's Songs." The fourth was on "The Services of the Angels."

For the first two thousand years of the world's history there is very little account of this great and interesting order of rational beings," the pastor stated. "For the last two thousand years they have neither been seen nor heard. During the second two thousand years they occupied a large place in the affairs of God's kingdom. The law was given by the dispensation of angels' and the gospel dispensation was ushered in by them. Under three heads we can group their service to humanity."

"Their military service comes first. Angels are warlike beings. They are mighty, youthful and when occasion serves of finer countenance. Pilate's soldiers were scared stiff at the sight of the angel of the resurrection. They are bold, swift and fully armed. They are also under a competent leader, Michael the archangel. Their first battle was in heaven, what the dragon warred and his angels and Michael and his angels. And Satan was cast out. Of this war there are no details. Its history is not available. The angels are the champions of the cause of God. Angels led the host of Israel from Egypt to Canaan. Our Lord had twelve legions of angels at instant command. And the final battle, the battle of Armageddon, is to be fought under the leadership of Michael. They also protect God's people. The angel of Jehovah Encampeth round about those that fear him and delivereth them."

"Their services as messengers might be placed second. The word angel means messenger. Of this department Gabriel seems to be the head. They explain visions and dreams and foretell future events and announce to men the fulfillment of age old prophecies. It was Gabriel that told Zacharias of the birth of John the Baptist; to Mary the birth of our Lord; and very like. Continued on Page Four

The Resurrection:—Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me shall never die. John 11:25, 26.Prayer:—Lord, we thank thee that we live, because thou livest.Saving the Roads

State highway officials have taken steps to safeguard stone and gravel roads from heavy traffic when the frost starts going out of the ground in the spring, and instructions have been issued to all district engineers, superintendents and road patrolmen that the same rules and regulations enforced last year will again be followed.

Highway people do not expect any serious amount of breaking up of roads this year largely due to the continued maintenance and also to the fact that there was little rain during the fall and winter when the roads were freezing. However, it is possible that some weak places will be developed. In such event heavy hauling will be prohibited at a time when they would cut under such traffic, and arrangements have been completed for immediate repairs when weak spots develop.

The same policy as that adopted by the state officials is followed by the county highway superintendent and his assistants, and as a result, there are few bad places on Rush county roads. Any other method of dealing with the road situation at this season of the year would be expensive to the taxpayers and would retard passenger car traffic seriously.

Common Sense Facts

A merchant doesn't spend his money for advertising merely to see his name in print.

He is too much of a business man

Pimples

You will be startled how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S.S.S.

PIMPLES are the first thing one notices in another person's face. It is too often cruel in its misjudgment. It judges from what it sees on the outside. Pimples are easy to get rid of. More red-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples staring at you in the mirror. Red-cells mean clear, pure, rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom from ever from pimples, from blackhead, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions; from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S.S.S. will aid Nature in building them for you! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. Start taking S.S.S. today. Its medicinal ingredients are purely vegetable.S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

He doesn't advertise goods that he can't recommend, because he knows that you can't fool all of the people all of the time, and that such a policy would eventually put him out of business.

He doesn't gouge his customers, because he knows that they would soon go elsewhere and buy for less money, and that would be the end of him.

It is reasonable to presume, then, that when he does advertise an article, that article is worth having and the price is within reason.

When you buy from a local merchant, that merchant's reputation for square dealing is behind the goods you buy.

Keep these common sense facts in mind when you go to buy and make the advertisements your guide, and you will make no mistake.

Good News From Abroad

Italy, according to reliable reports, will soon seek a hearing regarding the funding of her debt to the United States.

Her statesmen apparently have observed the good accruing to England in acknowledging her debt and making arrangements to pay.

The action of Great Britain and Poland in funding their debts to the United States, put them on the road back to prosperity.

This should be evidence enough to French statesmen that if France desires to prosper, she must do the honorable thing and take a definite step towards repaying the money she owes this country.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—A pair of the softest, silkiest kind of velvet gloves are an essential part of a presidential private secretary's wardrobe, but it is equally essential that there shall be a pair of iron hands inside them.

Everett Sanders of Indiana, who will succeed C. Bascom Sloop as private secretary to President Coolidge on March 4, is reputed to have the necessary equipment, sartorially and anatomically.

Of Sanders' ability as a salesman this column already has spoken, but a presidential private secretary also must be a diplomat of diplomats.

He mustn't offend anybody but frequently he must do and say things that are calculated to give offense.

HE must know everybody and all about everybody. He mustn't let anybody "get to" the president who oughtn't to "get to" him, but he mustn't make the mistake of preventing anybody from "getting to" him who ought to do so.

He must be as smooth as silk to the people he lets in and he must make those whom he keeps out like it.

He must be par excellence a politician—a "fixer."

He must be supremely loyal.

He has at least as difficult, delicate and fully as important a job as any cabinet member, but he must manage to keep himself inconspicuous—to efface himself.

EVERETT SANDERS ought to fill the bill.

He has been, for four terms, to all appearances just an ordinary "run of mine" congressman, from Terre Haute, Ind., but when you come to ask questions about him among his fellow lawmakers, you discover that they all like him and that, without making any fuss about it, he has a lot of influence.

Sanders was the son of a Hoosier clergyman. He is 43 years old.

He has served in the 65th, 67th and 68th Congresses, but did not seek re-election to the 69th, although it was conceded he would have had a walk-away.

He was among those mentioned as a vice presidential possibility at the Cleveland Republican convention.

The administration wanted Sloop on account of his political skill and experience, especially in the south, for he is one of that rare species, a southern Republican.

Having done his work and done it well, it has been known for some time that he wanted to get out of office.

Besides, his relations with Senator William M. Butler, Republican national committee chairman, have not been the most cordial.

FOURTH NUMBER ON THE WINTER COURSE*"Play Ball" Clark, Who Has Been at Rush County Chautauqua, to be at Little Flatrock*ENTERTAINER AND HUMORIST

The fourth number of the winter lyceum course sponsored by the Little Flatrock Christian church, will be held Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock, and Henry Clark, a noted lecturer, known as "Play Ball" Clark, will be the speaker.

Mr. Clark comes to the church well recommended and he is no stranger in this county, as he appeared at the Rush County Chautauqua a few years ago. He has several lectures, and will pick one of the following: "Stop, Look and Listen;" "Who Does Your Thinking," and "Let Us Smile."

Mr. Clark is a great entertainer and humorist, and each of his lectures carries with them a deep meaning that is bound to leave a good impression and serves a definite purpose.

At the former numbers of the lyceum course, large crowds have attended, and it is expected that Mr. Clark will even prove to be a better drawing card than any of the former numbers.

ly he is to be credited with announcing the birth of Jesus to the shepherds. An angel encouraged the Saviour as he suffered in Gethsemane and Paul when he was down cast over the adverse conditions at Corinth.

"Their present day service might be given a third place. 'Are they not all ministering spirits sent forth to do service in behalf of all those that shall inherit salvation?' Although they are unseen and unheard today, yet there is warrant to believe that their work is very real and their service very necessary. We may think of them as restraining Satan and his emissaries. The devil is more than a match for unaided human nature. He overthrew the first Adam in Eden. He caused the second Adam to sweat, as it were blood in Gethsemane. He deceived Judas and caused Peter to deny his Master and Thomas to doubt and 'all to forsake him and flee. Thank God every day for angelic defenders against his power. They also protect God's people against danger. These invisible warriors, these spiritual guardians, these winged messengers of the skies enable us to walk in safety amidst danger. 'For he gives his angels charge concerning us.' What strength and courage and endurance does such help give to the Christian soldiers as he fights the good fight of faith."

"The angels are our fellow servants, interested in the same matters, carrying out the same program obedient to the same Lord. And as we are loyal to Him, so will they be to us. Their last service is to bear us to our heavenly home. The case of Lazarus is an instance of customary thing. He died and was carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom, and at the end of the age our Lord will send forth his angels to gather his elect from the four quarters of the earth. And if you are God's child, a convoy of angels will meet you, beyond the portal of death to bear you home."

Indigestion Is AvoidableChiropractic Health Talk No. 99
By H. V. McCully, D. C., Ph. C.

Indigestion is one of the commonest ills known to Americans. Sufferers find that nothing they can eat "agrees" with them. Practically all food produces unpleasantness and trouble.

The usual treatment being to let a bad stomach have its own way, many people diet or eat pre-digested foods, giving the stomach no labor to perform. But there is a reason back of the stomach, namely interference with spinal nerves, which causes the stomach to "lie down on the job."

Under chiropractic adjustments this interference is removed. Nature brings the stomach back to par and the former sufferer eats as he should. By my chiropractic health method the cause is removed—the effect follows.

Indigestion Is Gone

"For several years I had suffered with indigestion, and a year ago I developed a very severe attack. I was forced to go to bed and after three days of intense suffering we called a chiropractor, who gave me great relief. The following day I was able to go to his office and take another adjustment, continuing until I had completed a full course. I have not had an attack of indigestion since, and my general health is greatly improved, especially my nervous system." — M. Shattuck, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2029-A.

Only three more games remain on the schedule this year. Now that the Lions are back in their stride, the thing to do is to win 'em all, and stand up the old fight clear to the end.

Carthage lost a couple of games over the week end. Moscow trounced them Friday night, and on Saturday night the Knightstown team had a hard time winning over them. Knightstown has the best team in their history, and held Newcastle to a close score on the week before.

Manilla couldn't stand the attack of that Greensburg team Friday night, and the Tree City five won out by a big score 48 to 15.

That wooden horse of the Newcastle Trojans sure looked real Friday night, when they took the Tin Camels on the Shelbyville floor, 34 to 28 in an overtime game.

Newcastle's slogan, "Dent those tin Camels," sure worked.

And lest you have forgotten that slogan, "Nik Those Ikimiks" proved a good one for the second time this season.

Frankfort gave Alice of Vincennes a valentine Saturday. The score was 41 to 40. The Hot Dogs were getting revenge for that defeat handed them on the Vincennes floor.

That Vincennes team has played three close games in their last starts. First Washington came within one point, and then Friday, Central of Evansville came within four points. Connersville beat Evansville and Rushville beat Connersville, and this sorta looks like some of these teams up here are not so far behind.

The results of games recently in this part of the state don't look like the best team won the district cup, in the tourney last month at Connersville.

After that tourney, Markin 'em of Newcastle didn't like the all-tourney selection, and said he would make his selection later, which he did after Newcastle defeated Connersville one point in Newcastle. Here is the latest all tourney selection, compiled by Hittin' 'em.

Arbuckle, forward, Rushville.
Newbold, forward, Rushville.
Davison, forward, Rushville.
Lakin, center, Rushville.
Osborne, guard, Rushville.
McNamara, guard, Rushville.
Cherry, guard, Rushville.
Miller, guard, Rushville.

Speaking of tall players, that fellow Kennedy in Missouri who stands almost 8 feet high, our friend Pass and Shoot over in Greencastle wants to ask, "how does the referee throw the ball high enough?"

And Friday night, in our excitement, we forgot to get that piece of that cake.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

day night 53 to 22 at Franklin. The Connersville team was followed by four traction cars loaded with rooters, but the team could not withstand the pace of the Franklin bunch.

The report of the game did not appear in the Star Sunday, because it was stated that everyone in Franklin went to Indianapolis Saturday night to see the big game between Franklin college and Butler, and Connersville had the gym to themselves.

WE'RE STILL WAITIN'

The following is from Side Lights; ever at Connersville:

Hittin' 'em of the Rushville Republican says we're goin' over to Franklin for a funny valentine. Well we may change his mind. And don't forget Hittin' 'em, we come back through Rushville and we'll let you know the result.

TAIL LIGHTS

STOP SILER AND HEIM ON THAT CARTHAGE BUNCH FRIDAY.

Richmond sure stepped on Columbus Friday night, 26 to 22. Now the next big event will be Connersville at Richmond this week.

Tuff luck. Connersville plays Richmond in the curtain raiser to a college game, and every game so far this season played as a curtain raiser, has meant defeat, because these high school teams are not used to being the "preliminary" attraction.

ANANIAS HIMSELF

Hittin' 'em said yesterday that the thirteenth was his lucky day that he got married that day and hadn't lost a battle yet. Speakin' of, Ananias clubs he ought to be a charter member—that is about that not losing a battle stuff. We'll leave it to any married man in the house—we mean any married man anywhere.

—Side Lights, C-ville.

Many Rushville people saw the four car special traction train go through Rushville Saturday afternoon enroute to Franklin from Connersville. Judging from the hour's time that was wasted in the yards at the east edge of Rushville, people down town began to think that they were ashamed to go through, and were waiting for it to get dark.

KEEP UP THE PEP THIS WEEK AND LET'S CARRY THROUGH THE OLE FIGHT UNTIL THE END.

And there is a Friday the thirteenth next month also.

COLLINS FOUND

on preliminary examination believe he is dead.

Dr. C. E. Francis of Bowling Green, Ky., Dr. M. M. Moss of the Kentucky state militia and Dr. William Hazlett, Chicago surgeon, will go down the shaft to examine Collins, it was announced.

A few moments before this announcement Homer Collins, a brother of the entombed man, made an effort to enter the rescue pit, but was turned back by the militia.

Soldiers with fixed bayonets were placed around the scene of consultation.

First word of the discovery, Carmichael said, reached him at 2:45 p. m.

A fourth physician, Dr. C. C. Howard of Glasgow, joined the others in their inspection trip down the shaft.

Workmen clung to their tools after the discovery of Collins' body and dirt came from the mouth of the shaft in bucketfuls as the pitmen dug away the debris that surrounded the prisoner of seventeen days.

Carmichael, Posey, Denhardt and Punkhouse gathered to draft a formal report. The doctors have not yet descended the shaft.

Carthage puts on Rally Which is Cut Off by Final Gun Shot—First Half See-Saw Affair

ANDERSON SCORES 11 FIELDS

Knightstown high was victor in a great battle with Carthage Saturday night at Carthage, winning by eight points in the last few minutes of play, 32 to 24.

The first half was a see-saw affair, Knightstown finally leading at half time, 16 to 14. In the second half the visitors gained a lead of 12 points at 32 to 20, but Carthage edged two more field goals and was putting on a rally to cut down the lead when the gun sounded.

Anderson, visiting center, scored seven field goals and their back guard, Boyer, played exceptionally well. Siler sank five field goals for Carthage and Tetric and Renegar performed well on the defense.

Both teams had played on the previous night, Carthage being defeated by Moscow 44 to 26 at Blue Ridge, and Knightstown had defeated Mooreland by a safe margin.

Carthage is preparing for Rushville this week, and they will put up a big fight to win the game here.

Rush county people have been compelled to hold their eggs.

"It should not be forgotten," he added, "that the fowl pest virus is carried inside the egg and on the egg shells, and if we should allow the sale of eggs from counties where we are not sure is free of fowl pest, the disease might be carried to the poultry."

The disinfecting of the premises and equipment of every poultry dealer will begin Tuesday. The dealers are requested to have their equipment and places of business clean by Tuesday noon so that the actual work of disinfecting, which will be done under federal inspection, can be accomplished with the greatest possible dispatch.

Dr. Wickwire estimated today that if there were no unnecessary delays, the disinfecting should be completed in two days. After that, and the survey is completed in every township of the county, there will be some consideration given to tightening or removing the quarantine.

Dr. Todd finished the survey in Jackson township Saturday evening and was assigned to Posey township to help Dr. Gordon finish the survey of that township.

Dr. Hall, who is working in Washington township, and Dr. Catt, in Noble township, expected to finish up by this evening, and they will be detailed to other townships where the work has not yet been completed.

"In the last seventeen years, there have been three outbreaks of foot and mouth disease in the United States," Dr. Wickwire pointed out. "They have been in widely

Johnson Gag Slipped

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 16—During the last meeting of the major league club owners, the magnates sought to appease the outraged feelings of Commissioner Landis by jamming a muzzle into the mouth of Ban Johnson, President of the American League, who took a rap at the dignity of the Commissioner by criticizing the way in which he handled the Giant scandal.

There had been an agreement, it seems that the Commissioner was never to be criticized publicly for any action he should take in the administration of baseball, which in the light of recent events seems to consist entirely of keeping players straight.

Johnson had engaged previously in several mild and subtle cracks at the former jurist who had succeeded him as the czar of baseball. But the feelings of the Commissioner were not aroused to the point of retaliation until the winter meetings of 1923.

The judge at that time was reported to have opened a verbal barrage against Johnson which ended in a dramatic climax when Landis smacked his contract down on the table with the ultimatum—"Tear it up if you want that Johnson instead of me."

The magnates voted that they didn't want that Johnson in place of the judge and to all it seemed that the Ban had been ushered to a seat several rows in the rear of the Judge.

Johnson didn't say much last season until the Dolan-O'Connell scandal broke just before the world's series. Ban then let out an awful roar. He said a lot of headline things, among which was the expression of an opinion that the Giants had been mixed up in nearly every one of baseball's scandals;

scattered sections and the outbreak in Indianapolis in 1915 and '16 was one of the worst. There is none now in Indiana because we cleaned it up right then.

"We are proceeding along safe lines now, just as we did in the foot and mouth outbreak. We are going to clean up the fowl pest, too. We are not going to allow it to get away from us. All we ask is the same splendid co-operation that we have had in the past. The United States is the only country that does not now have the foot and mouth disease. That is because that whenever it appears, it is cleaned out right."

"We are here to protect the poultry industry of Rush county and everything we do is to protect the interests of the poultry producers. They have realized that and this accounts for their co-operation."

Fowl Pest in Delaware

that the facts were being covered up and that the world's series should be called off. Landis wouldn't call off the series, and Johnson didn't attend any of the games, although the team of his close friend, Clarke Griffith, was representing the American League.

Landis then demanded action and he got it—in a way. The National League took a sock at Johnson without mentioning his name in a set of resolutions intended as a severe reprimand. The American League took an indirect sock at its president by a resolution endorsing all that Landis had done in handling the scandal and by assuring him of its support in the future.

The American League then appointed a committee to make peace with Landis and assure him that if Johnson ever opened his mouth again that he would be kicked out of a job that is worth $30,000 a year. The two leagues then got together and told Landis that the unwelcome person of Johnson would be removed from his immediate vicinity and Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit Tigers and Vice President of the American League, would take Johnson's place on the advisory council.

Ban, it was felt, had been muzzled for good. No more criticism of baseball could come from the intimate circles of the magnates and all the things that the baseball writers might complain about would not hurt the game, as the fans are all-forgiving gents with a faith in the integrity of baseball that can't be assailed.

The muzzle that had been stuffed into the mouth of Johnson however, must have been made of mosquito netting. The Ban remained silent for a time and then the old peaking machinery started in motion with a few sparks.

Johnson was quoted from Excelsior Springs as saying that as far as Landis was concerned he didn't consider his existence and that he was going to ignore him in the future.

WILLIAM J. OLIPHANT IS DEAD

Former Fayette County Man, Related Here, Expires in Gary

William J. Oliphant, age sixty-four years, a former Fayette county man, died at his home in Gary, Ind., Saturday, and funeral services were held there today. He was a brother of Mrs. Ella Neutzenhelzer of this city.

Mr. Oliphant was born and reared at Nulltown, south of Connersville and attended school at Spiceland academy, Earlham college and Valparaiso university. For a number of years was a traveling salesman and for the past few years had been proprietor of the Gary hotel.

Besides the sister living here, Mr. Oliphant is survived by the widow, a son and daughter. He had visited here frequently.

All of the flocks have been destroyed.

Survey of all flocks in the nine counties in eastern Indiana in the quarantined area continued today in the government's fight to stamp out the malady. Veterinarians continued their sweep on the nine counties in an effort to find any new outbreaks and to check the spread by killing all chickens in the infected flocks.

Five Feet of Solid Rock Bars Way to Collins' Cave Prison

phone up word the moment Collins was reached.

It was estimated that the natural passageway which will lead to Collins was six or seven feet away and five feet lower than the floor of the lateral heading.

The lateral drift is now being sunk at an angle of 45 degrees to reach the cavern.

Early in the night H. T. Carmichael, in charge of rescue work, said the probability was that Collins would be reached Tuesday but the progress made by the night shifts gave hopes that the rescuers will break through earlier.

If the slide which cut off the natural entrance to Collins' prison freed the explorer from the boulder which pinioned his foot, it will take only a short time to remove him, rescuers said. In event he is still held fast by the boulder, it will take five or six hours to free him from its vice-like grasp.

Repeated sound tests assured the diggers they were nearing the victim. Picked miners crawled into the original entrance to the cave to the point where it was blocked by slides and listened to tappings by men at the bottom of the rescue shaft. They said it would break through near the spot where Collins lies.

Other days have been named as Collins day of delivery. Hopes have been raised to sink again as the rescuers encountered new and disheartening difficulties.

Evil fortune outdid itself to place obstacles in the path of the stubborn rescue crews. Drenching rains and slides of dirt and rock at the bottom of the shaft practically stopped operations Saturday night when the goal seemed almost momentarily at hand.

But this should be Collins' day as prying tools of weary pit men probe closer and closer to his rock prison. Increasing signs have been noted, Carmichael said, that the shaft has wormed itself way into the cavernous sections like that which the engineers believe immediately surrounds Collins in the spot where he has lain for nearly 17 days.

The shaft proceeded on schedule Sunday. In the face of discouraging obstacles the six foot square tube was driven toward its goal.

Sweating, dirt-stained men shoveled into a bucket the slate and clay and rock clipped from the blank face of the shaft. A wheezing engine carried the bucket to the surface and lowered it again. The tunnel was advancing. Twice digging stopped while other dirt-stained men built about them a wall of timber to prevent further slides.

"There is no reason to believe we will not reach Collins with 36 hours conditional on the present rate of progress over-estimated distance," read an official bulletin issued at 9 a. m., Sunday.

Thirty-six hours from that time would be 9 o'clock Monday night. The shaft is progressing on schedule.

Success may be delayed again, but not for long. The shaft has been stubborn in its advance and to workmen and officials it seems every imaginable difficulty has been encountered.

The rescue effort has become a stubborn attempt to advance the tunnel inch by inch toward a predetermined goal. And only a few feet remain.

Dr. Wm. Hazlett, Chicago surgeon, re-checked his preparations to enter the cave when the diggers break through and administer a stimulant to Collins if he still lives.

FIRE LOSS OF $20

A spark or defective flue is believed to have set fire to the roof of the home of Charles H. Brown, 226 West Fourth street, Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. A small hole was burned, and the blaze was quickly extinguished upon arrival of the fire department. The loss was estimated at $20. The house is owned by H. S. Havens, and is a double, occupied by Mr. Brown and his father-in-law, I. L. Clifford.

Muncie—Police here are not satisfied with new California tops recently placed on the emergency cars. They now suggest that flower vases, softer cushions and ash trays be installed.

WOMEN OF 1925 REGARDED AS THE BEST DRESSED IN HISTORY

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for United Press)
New York, Feb. 16—"Whom do women dress for?"

Here is a question that has never been solved and perhaps never will be—the reason being that women can never be taken generally. Some women dress to please their husbands; some dress to please other women's husbands; some dress to satisfy their own sweet selves.

Why does a pea-cock preen his tailfeathers? That's the answer. We are not interested in "why women dress" but in the fact that they do dress better today than ever before in the history of the world. Fabrics have never been so beautiful and the intricacies of gownmaking have been developed until clothes have ceased to be mere garments of utility, but have become objects of art.

The best dressed women today are not the light-headed heartbreakers of motion picture vamp style. Ah no! The best dressed women are those whose husbands have nice fat pocketbooks and equally well dressed are the moneyed sisters.

The vamp is seldom dressed in good taste. Not so long ago every small town had a few females who out-dressed the other women of the town and startled them with their eccentric hats and frocks, their white fox furs and silken hose. Women on upper Main Street gossiped about them but never spoke to them.

It was not always that their morals were at fault, but nice women didn't approve of their stylish clothes.

Where are these small town vamps today? It's the self-same nice women who have laid them on the shelf. The bankers' wife, the butcher's wife and the baker's wife have grown to be the style leaders of the town. Women who seemed middle aged ten years ago have blossomed out into fascinating thirty-five-year-olds. And it's modern dressing and cosmetics that have made this possible.

No! We are not interested in "why women dress" but we certainly get a kick out of the fact that they do. Dress, and green and furnish our streets with silken ankles, rouged lips and beauty.

Married women are seldom jealous of the clothes of other married women. It's the single girls whose slenderness and modish clothes make them wish they didn't have to divide their spending money between the household needs and their own desires. Whether to buy new curtains for the house or some new feminine furbelow is a constant bugbear to the married woman of limited allowance. One hesitates to suggest that curtains should take second place, since most men adore pretty homes, but a pretty home with a poorly dressed mistress isn't always a success, whereas a well-dressed wife can cover a multitude of household sins by appearing lovely in the eyes of her husband. Somehow the average woman of today manages to keep the homed fires burning well enough and to keep beautiful at the same time.

We speak of married women and of girls when we speak of fashions. There seems to be none of the women left who were formerly termed "old maids." And the reason we have so few unmarried women of middle age is clothes, bobbed hair and cosmetics; Added to this is the fact that women no longer deem it proper to sit at home and knit chairbacks. The modern girl gets out into the world, becomes a part of it, and of its fashions and makes herself interesting in mind and in dress to all mankind. Coy and coqueted ladies are no more and the modern female is indeed "more deadly than the male" when it comes to plumage.

Paul Poirer advances the theory that women will eventually wear trousers. He claims that the simplification of female costume is leading to the wearing of trousers. The masculine trend in bobbed hair cuts, pajamas, knickers, etc., might point that way, but if trousers become a feminine style, it's a cinch they'll be short ones, as women will never accept a style which does away with the showing of their silken ankles. Trousers are a bit too modest for the Caucasian races. It was the Chinese and Oriental races who conceived the idea of putting their womenfolk in trousers and they did so because they knew trousers were less enticing than skirts.

TALKS AT PLUM CREEK

Clyde Gordon spoke on "Life of Lincoln and His Contribution to Our Religion," at the Plum Creek Christian church Sunday morning, and Adrian Eckart spoke on "George Washington and What He Did for Past and Present Christianity." Both talks were interesting. Every member of the Sunday school was present and the Rev. E. B. Scofield of Indianapolis was a guest.

Traders Point—When the driver of a truck for the Milner Packing company, of Frankfort, put on his brakes here the truck somersaulted, leaped into the air, and turned completely over before making a perfect landing on all four wheels in the ditch. The driver clung to the steering wheel and was uninjured.

This picture was taken at the mouth of the shaft dug to reach Floyd Collins at Sand Cave, Kentucky just as workers were changing shifts. The rope shown in the center of the photo was used to haul stone and shale to the surface.

Orchestra Pleases

Heine's Royal Orchestra, at the Castle Saturday for matinee and night performance, was regarded as one of the best musical attractions ever seen at a local theatre. Many people were turned away Saturday evening. The orchestra was composed of ten extraordinarily good musicians, whose ensemble numbers and solo selections brought prolonged applause.

"Captain Blood" Comes

Off the shores of Santa Catalina great pirate ships rested in quiet waters. On the island's rocky vantage points and a small patch of land just off the isthmus, groups of studio folk and photographers gathered to watch developments.

A slight puff of smoke swirled peacefully enough against the darker background of Santa Catalina's skyline. Then—

A terrific explosion rent the waters. The ships staggered as though a tropic typhoon had spent its fury in this compact space. An inverted cone of flame and smoke shot high from the Victoriense and the first of the two ill-fated craft of the Sabatini picture, "Captain Blood," which will be shown at the Castle theatre the first 3 days this week flamed to a sky-touching pillar of smoke and thence to a mass of falling debris.

The sea became literally a million tiny water spouts as the wreckage was hurled into the depths. Falling wood, the grinding of splinters, bits of iron and all that goes to make up a sturdy ship descended in clouds, threatening the lives of the cameramen—but they kept steadfastly at their work. On and on the camera ground until the sea grew quiet, the smoke rolled away, and begheld! There remained on the surface of the sea—Nothing!

Fights Galore

A striking Arrow-Ben Wilson "Great Western," such as the public has learned to expect in these releases, will be shown at the Mystic Theatre, where the attraction will be "Romance and rustlers," starring Yakima Canutt, American Champion Cowboy.

For suspense and thrills, few pictures compare with those contained in this story and the situations are so real to life, that it promises to be one of the season's most notable thrillers.

Cave Pictures at Princess

Pictures taken at Sand Cave, in Kentucky, where an effort is being made to restore Floyd Collins from his cave prison, will be shown at the Princess theatre tonight and Tuesday, in addition to the regular program.

They were taken by E. E. Arbuckle of Greensburg, who went to the scene last week and remained several days.

It was the courtesy of Chief Engineer Carmichael, in charge of the rescue work and Col. John Stites and General H. H. Denhart, Lieutenant governor of Kentucky, Mr. Arbuckle was permitted inside the lines and down into the shaft where the miners were at work and at the entrance of the cave.

Mr. Arbuckle after receiving passes was unable to get photos of the work and the place of interest until he had put the matter up to the lieutenant governor telling him of his collection and how they were used for educational purposes. He was down in the pit when it was at thirty-five feet and has photos of it. He became well acquainted with the faithful dog and was told by the

Live Opportunities for You

OPPORTUNITY knocks but once." So said the sage. But don't you believe it. It isn't so.

Opportunity knocks every day of your life. Every advertisement in this paper is brimful of opportunity for some one. Many of them are written with you in mind. They offer you opportunities to save time, money and effort—opportunities to surround yourself with comforts and conveniences—opportunities to eat better, sleep better, dress better and live better.

You would live in ignorance of these opportunities were it not for advertising. Somebody might be selling a new, better and more economical food; or a utensil that would add immeasurably to your comfort and well being; or some better material for making shoes or clothing—but you would never know it.

Modern advertising is a boon. It keeps information up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitably, happy and useful lives in this age of rapid-fire progress.

Every advertisement in this paper is a real opportunity.

Don't let it knock in vain

FIVE FEET OF SOLID ROCK BARS WAY TO COLLINS' CAVE PRISON

Workmen Encounter New Obstacle
When Rescue This Morning Seemed Only Few Moments Away

MAY REACH CAVERN TONIGHT

(By United Press)

At the mouth of Sand Cave, Feb. 16—One man working with hand tools in a cramped position at the head of the lateral drift driving toward Floyd Collins, must make his way through five feet of solid rock before the cavern that may hold Collins is reached.

Just as victory seemed to be within the grasp of workmen, the fate which repeatedly blocked their efforts checked their program again.

It was supposed at noon that the pitman would pierce the cavern at any moment. The noon communiqué, however, indicated that the diggers will not reach their goal before evening in view of the new obstacle.

What they will find at the end of the five foot tunnel yet to be carved, is not known. Pneumatic hammers cannot be brought to play in the man hole because of the vibration that it sets up. The narrowness of the bore prevents more than one man at a time working. Workmen expect to strike within ten feet of Collins.

If Collins is alive physicians will administer stimulants and work with him underground until they have exhausted their resources. Then he will be taken to the shaft and borne up the winding path and to the Red Cross tent.

At 10 o'clock timbering of the shaft was finished and the pick and shovel crews returned to the bottom.

Timbering operations had taken more time than was expected.

At 10:30 the bucket brought up the first load of sandy-like material, causing observers at the head of the shaft to believe the crews at the bottom had struck the anticipated layer of sandy material lying between them and the cavern.

The clay character of this material corresponded with the nature of the rock geologists had expected to surround Collins' prison.

A telephone wire was strung to the bottom of the shaft shortly after 11 o'clock. It was presumed directors of rescue work were planning to continue on page six.

PERSONAL PROFIT IS NOT CONSIDERED

Dr. N. G. Wickwire Points Out Sole Purpose of Quarantine is to Protect Poultry Industry

EGGS CAN'T BE SHIPPED IN

"The European fowl pest quarantine will not be bent or broken for the personal profit of anyone." This was the edict of Dr. N. G. Wickwire, federal veterinarian, after he was importuned today by a dealer to be permitted to sell eggs shipped here from Decatur county.

"I asked the dealer who wanted to sell eggs shipped here from the county on the south, whether he could guarantee that they were free from the fowl pest," Dr. Wickwire continued. "He could not, and since we do not know, it is not right to take the chance of spreading the disease in Rush county after the poultry raisers of the county have been so considerate and helpful in enabling us to make the survey of the county."

"Furthermore, we expect to protect the interests of the Rush county poultry raisers because they have cooperated in every way so that the survey, in search of the disease, could be made with the greatest possible speed. It is not fair, aside from the danger entailed to permit eggs from outside counties to be placed on sale here, when

BULLETIN
(By United Press)

At The Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 16—Brigadier General Kehoe of Kentucky Nat. Guard, this afternoon declared that Floyd Collins was dead. Official statement of General Kehoe said there was a strong odor about Collins' body, and that decomposition had apparently set in.

At The Mouth of Sand Cave, Ky., Feb. 16—Official announcement at 3:45 p. m. today said Collins had been found.

The announcement said that Collins was believed dead. Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhardt, E. S. Posey, H. T. Carmichael and Dr. W. D. Funkhouse joined in making the announcement.

No doctor has yet examined Collins, it was announced.

The announcement coming a few moments after authorities indicated Collins would not be reached before midnight, brought terrific excitement among the crowd gathered outside. Soldiers guarded the shaft.

Persons on the surface were notified that the workmen had crashed through the roof of the cavern and were close to the passage.

Carmichael went down the shaft to make an inspection. A few minutes later Carmichael returned to the surface and summoned three other men. They walked out on the track used by tram cars to get away from the dirt from the rescue shaft operations.

After a moments consultation they walked back toward the mouth of the shaft and Carmichael said to the reporters: "We have found Collins and

RALPH H. ELWELL FINED IN COURT

Washington Township Farmer Is Found Guilty of Assaulting his Wife by Judge Sparks

JURY CALLED, BUT NOT USED

Wade Trischman is Arrested on Grand Jury Indictment, Charged With Theft of Shotgun

Ralph H. Elwell was tried this morning before Judge Sparks on a charge of assault and battery, and was found guilty, receiving a fine of $25 and costs.

The charge was preferred last October by his wife, Elva Loraine Elwell, who charged in the affidavit that he struck and abused her. The parties are well known residents of Washington township.

The jury had been summoned for the case, but was not used, and the facts were presented to the court. The case required all morning for trial, with considerable evidence being introduced.

The testimony of Dr. R. O. Kennedy, physician, stated that when Mrs. Elwell presented herself after the alleged attack, that she was bruised about the face, right arm, and neck, and that she suffered a broken rib.

The third arrest on the grand jury indictments was made late Saturday, when Wade Trischman was arrested at Knightstown and returned to jail here. He is charged with grand larceny, the indictment accusing him with the theft of a shotgun, belonging to Ralph Moffitt, living in northern Rush county.

A complaint has been filed by Winnie P. Barlow against Ransey Barlow, the action being proceedings supplementary to execution. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff was granted a court judgment for $1,750 in the local court some time ago, and the judgment has not been made.

The action is to force the payment, and serve execution on property owned by the defendant. The hearing on the matter has been set for February 21.

GING HIGH SCHOOL GIRL IS VICTORIOUS

Miss Naomi Nash is Elected Representative From Rush County to Junior Legislature

WINS ON THE 14TH BALLOT

Five Candidates Start in Race, With Rushville Substituting After Being Eliminated

Miss Naomi Nash, a Junior in the Ging high school, was elected representative from the Rush county schools, to the Junior General Assembly, to be held in Indianapolis next month, and her election was made on the fourteenth ballot at the county convention held Saturday.

Twelve delegates represented the county convention here, and a spirited contest resulted. Five candidates were placed in order at first: Harold Stiers, of New Salem; Malcolm Small of Carthage; Arthur Kirk, of Webb; Lawrence Davison of Rushville and Miss Nash of Gings.

Miss Nash received six ballots on the first two rounds of voting, but 7 was the required number to elect. Stiers went out on the fourth ballot, when he and Davison were voted upon for the low candidate.

Davison in turn was dropped on the seventh, as the rules provided that the low man was to be dropped at that time. In his place, LeMoine Perkins of Rushville was substituted, and he also was dropped on the ninth, with Emily Mauzy being placed in the race.

At the end of the twelfth ballot a ten minute recess was taken, and voting resumed. Arthur Cortner of Rushville was also placed in the race. On the fourteenth ballot, Miss Nash won out, when she received 7 votes. Kirk finished second with 3, and Small and Cortner each had one vote.

Miss Nash made a talk after she was elected, and she will serve as Rush county representative in the assembly. The assembly will be held in the state house, in the room now occupied by the legislators, and the high school legislature will enact laws and spend a week in that capacity, presenting bills and following the routine of work which has been transacted by the regular members of the state legislature.

All of the men who have the price of admission will be welcomed at the door by a reception committee, and those who are arranging for the entertainment guarantee that they will get their money's worth.

The concert will include the old favorite songs and they will be presented by local artists in costume. Mrs. C. E. Walden is arranging the program. The proceeds will be used by the Dr. Gilbert class in local charity work.

SAFETY BILL IS KILLED IN SENATE

Attacked as an Attempt in Disguise to Create State Constabulary, on Second Reading

COMPENSATION BILL ADVANCE

Would Increase Maximum from $13.50 to $16.50 for Loss of Time—Hit as Labor Measure

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—Attacking the Penrod safety bill as an attempt in disguise to create a state constabulary, Senator Nejdil, republican leader, succeeded in killing the measure when it came up for second reading today in the state senate.

The bill was an administration measure recommended by Governor Jackson's survey commission, as a matter of efficiency and economy. It would have created a director of public safety, combining under him the present departments of state police, factory inspection, boiler inspection, fire prevention and that of women and children, eliminating the department of oil inspection.

The senate today advanced the bill for increased workmen's compensation bill a step nearer passage in face of bitter opposition.

A majority committee report for passage of the bill with amendments was adopted.

The measure, introduced by Senator Alldredge of Anderson, would increase the maximum compensation from $13.50 to $16.50 weekly for the loss of time. It would also increase the maximum indemnity from $5,000 to $16,500.

"This bill is another cunning step on a part of a certain element of organized labor to drive another wedge to further intimidate industry," Senator Inman of Danville, who opposed the bill most bitterly, declared. "It is another effort of labor to take over industry."

He said the vast majority of labor which is unorganized was opposed to the bill.

Senator Nejdil, of Whiting, said that in view of the fact that seventy percent of the population of the state labored for their livelihood, a measure of this kind should be supported.

Old age pensions were given favorable action in the senate when it adopted a committee report without recommendation. The senate took this action when the president of the senate ruled that a committee report without recommendation on the bill which was introduced by Senator Nejdil, meant passage. The bill is now ready for second reading.

Two bills for establishment of the county unit system of education are ready for introduction in the senate, it was learned.

Senator Stelle of Knox has a bill which would not only establish the county unit, but also would abolish the office of township trustees and organize the state board of education.

Senator Holmes of Gary has another bill providing for referendum by counties on the county unit in the 1926 general election. It provides township trustees shall constitute the first county board in counties which adopt the plan.

OTHER CHURCH SERVICES

Fourth of Sermon Series on "That Which is Lost" at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal

The Rev. H. W. Hargett preached another of the series of Sunday evening sermons on the general theme, "That Which is Lost," at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, before a large and attentive congregation Sunday night.

The Rev. E. G. McKibben of the First United Presbyterian church has also been preaching a series of Sunday evening sermons on "Angels," and last night he gave the fourth and concluding one on the subject, "The Services of Angels."

A large audience heard the concert given by the Cole orchestra and chorus at the Main Street Christian church Sunday evening. Each number on the program was splendidly rendered, especially the solo features. Dean F. D. Kershner of Butler college spoke at the Christian church at the morning hour.

"The Marks of a Christian" was the theme of the Rev. R. W. Sage at the First Baptist church Sunday morning.

Good attendance was reported at Sunday school and church services all over the city Sunday.

St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal

"Lost: A Successful Business Man," was the subject of the Rev. H. W. Hargett's sermon delivered Sunday evening at the St. Paul's Methodist church. The text was taken from Luke 19:10 "For the son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost." He said in part:

"Old yet ever new is the story of the lost. The Bible is not ancient history alone but present day history as well. No age, no country, no city, no village has been without its lost men. The text was spoken of a lost business man. Over his door was a sign, 'Yachens Collector, General for Jericho.' Was he successful? Decidedly so. Look at his big house, his big estate, his big bank account. He was not a drunkard, not a criminal, not a 'down and out' but an 'Up and In.' Can such men be lost? The world is very slow to grant that, that which it calls success, God may call failure and that which it calls gain, God may call loss. Man asks 'What have you?' God asks 'What are you?'"

MRS. LAURA BROOKS DIES AT HER DAUGHTER'S HOME

Widow of William M. Brooks, Long Resident of Rush County, Expires After 2 Weeks Illness

SURVIVED BY FIVE CHILDREN

Mrs. Laura Delle Brooks, widow of the late William M. Brooks, died Sunday morning about 10:30 o'clock at her home, 315 West Third street, death resulting from a two weeks illness with complications of diseases.

The deceased was a native of Ohio, but had lived in this county for a great many years. She was 75 years of age. She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Alfred Looney of this city, with whom she lived, Mrs. Demp Norris of Glenwood, Harry D. Brooks of Denver, Leslie Brooks of Indianapolis and Will M. Brooks, living east of Rushville. She also is survived by several grandchildren, and a brother, Thomas J. Downey of this city.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Main Street Christian church in charge of the Rev. J. N. Jessup of Lafayette, and burial will be made in East hill cemetery. Friends may call at the late residence until the hour of the services.

Reduction of 17 Percent in Number of Sows Kept for Spring Farrowing in 1924

FARMERS ARE PESSIMISTIC

American Pork Production is Dominated by What Happens in Corn Belt—Prices Improved

(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—The manner in which the markets have absorbed the heavy and sometimes record breaking receipts of hogs for several weeks without corresponding breaks in price is explained largely by the increasingly prevalent idea that there are fewer hogs in the country than there were at this time a year ago.

This idea has a foundation of hard fact. The corn belt produced from ten to eleven million fewer hogs in 1924 than in 1923.

Farmers became pessimistic about the hog outlook as the year progressed. They made heavier reductions in hog breeding operations the latter part of the year than they did during the early months.

There was a reduction of 17 per cent in the number of sows kept for spring farrowing purposes in 1924 and a reduction of 30 per cent in the number of sows kept for fall farrowing the same year.

Weather conditions were favorable, however, during the fall farrowing season, and larger litters than usual were saved.

The result was that while there was a reduction of 30 per cent in the number of sows kept, there was a reduction of only 24 per cent in the number of pigs saved.

The increasingly firm undertone that has characterized the corn market during the past few weeks has had the usual effect on the outlook for hog production in 1925.

Farmers in the corn belt are planning on keeping ten per cent fewer sows for spring farrow this coming spring than they had last spring, according to a survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Considering this data and past experience there will probably be a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent in the number of sows that will farrow this spring in the corn belt states.

American pork production is dominated by what happens in the corn belt, and a similar situation may be expected throughout the country.

Much comment has been made in newspapers throughout the country concerning increased prosperity for farmers. Many farmers in the corn belt, and especially in Indiana and a couple of other states which have unusually poor corn crops last fall failed to come in for their share of the prosperity.

Corn prices have improved, it is true, but this does not help the farmers of Indiana, where between 85 and 90 per cent of the corn raised is fed to livestock.

Reports State Increasing Prosperity of Farmers Has Tended to Stabilize Farm Values

BOARD COMPILES FIGURES

Reappraisal Which was Fixed by Legislature for 1926 Ordered by 1925 Board at Request of Gov.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16—Assessed values of real estate in Indiana during 1924 continued below sales values, according to figures being compiled by the state tax board today preliminary to the 1925 reappraisal.

This is true both in rural and urban values, the figures show, despite the fact that many who urged that the board order a reappraisal in Indiana for this year declared that values of farms especially, at which they were assessed were higher than at which they are being sold.

Reports are being received by the tax board that increasing prosperity of farmers has tended to stabilize farm values in many localities which were headed downwards a year ago.

The reappraisal which was fixed by the legislature for 1926 was ordered by the board for 1925 at the request of Governor Jackson. Candidates in both political parties promised a reappraisal this year, however, during the last campaign.

In 1909 real estate transfers during 1924 in 17 counties the proceeds totaled $5,974,417 while the assessed valuation of the property sold totaled $4,607,208, or over $1,300,000 less than actually obtained for the property.

In 48 cities and towns, a total of 1012 real estate transfers were recorded. The transactions involved $3,453,628. The assessed valuations of the property involved totaled $2,754,992. This was $700,000 less than the total amount obtained from the sales.

FINISHED SERMON SERIES ON 'ANGELS'

"What is it to be lost? Does it refer to the state of the dead who have rejected the divine mercy? Death does not start the ruin, it only reveals it. What man is lost who is where God cannot use him. The coin was lost when it rolled from the woman's hand under the furniture and could not be put in circulation. The value of a man's life is found in terms of his relationships with others. As son, as brother, as father, as citizen, as neighbor, as employer, as employee, he counts. If these contacts are Christianized he is where God can use him. If not he is lost to the plan and purpose of God, no matter how big his auto or his business."

"A man is lost, when he has lost the sense of divine direction and is traveling away from God. He is lost when he permits himself to fall into the grip of forces which left to themselves will bring destruction."

"Put fell from the top of the Woolworth building in New York. A friend from an office halfway down called out, 'How are you enjoying your trip?' Pat replied 'I'm having the time of my life.' But the time of Pat's life soon ended in a red spot on the pavement. In the grip of appetite, passion, evil habit, some people have thought that they were having the time of their lives. In reality they were lost because of being in the grip of forces bearing them to certain destruction."

"How are men lost? By thoughtlessness. They wander as did the sheep led by chance and desire. They stray away from restraint to liberty, then to license and bondage. They are lost by the carelessness of others. They are lost by their own willfulness as was the Prodigal Son. In this 'Far Country' Winston Churchill describes Hugh Paret, the successful man, who willfully seeks material success at the expense of the ideals and principles of his noble father. He accepts the nomination for governor of the state. In an address of his rival, he feels himself in the presence of something bigger than his mercenary ideals. He realizes that with all his wealth and power he has found only the husk of things and that salvation is the continuous development of the qualities that make manhood."

How may the lost be saved? The son of man came to save us from sin to righteousness, from selfishness to magnanimity, from littleness to largeness, from hallowness to greatness, from defeat and death to liberty and to life.

First Presbyterian

"How Christ Transforms Men," was the sermon subject at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning when the Rev. Gibson used as a text, 2 Cor. 3:18, "We all with unveiled faces beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord, are transformed into the same image from glory to glory." He said in part:

"The shining face should be the possession of every man, woman and child who has looked into the face of Jesus."

"However dark the cloud may be which sin has thrown over our countenance, his life has the power to remove the veil, by the transformation of our inward character."

"Our text takes us back to the time when Moses was on the mount, communing with God. He received the two tablets of stone. When he came down his face was shining by reason of his communing with God."

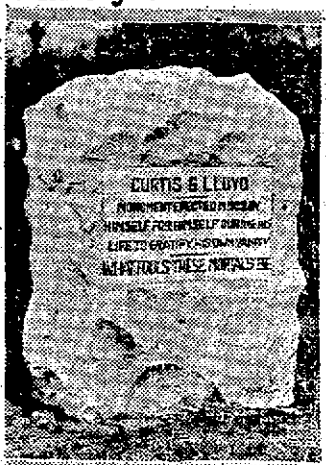

"If we have assembled in the right spirit this morning, to worship, cares should banish, the blotches of sin should disappear, sorrows should vanish and there should be the glow on every face. Let us see, God's transforming power through nature as he brings it to bear on man. Take for example, the wind. How playfully it fans the cheek! It whippers among the treetops, waves the meadows and the golden grain."

"Now look at it changing the destinies of nations. Herodotus tells us how Persia determined to humble Greece. She brought together an army of 2,000,000 men and a navy of 1,200 vessels. The earth trembled at their approach and the hour of doom for Greece seemed to be at hand. But God was on his throne and sent a great wind that dashed the navy against the rocks of Greece and Persia stood humbled before the world and God."

"When Philip II, tried to overthrow England a storm over threw the Spanish Armada, and the religious influence of England rather than that of Spain dominates the world."

"It was a rain that caused the defeat of Napoleon at Waterloo, again giving the ascendancy to the English. Victor Hugo says 'It was a day of destiny and the force which is above man produced that day, On that day the perspective of the human race was changed."

Vanity's Marker

"Born in 1858. Died 66 or more years after. The exact number of years, months and days, nobody knows and nobody cares. Monument erected by himself, for himself, during his life to gratify his own vanity. What fools these mortals be. That's the inscription Curtis Lloyd of Cincinnati has had placed on his monument at Crittenden Ky. Lloyd is an authority on fungi and a chemist."

Shakespeare says: 'What a piece of work man is. How noble in reason. How infinite in faculty. To this man as he first came from the Master's hand, God said: 'Replenish the earth and subdue it.' But man failed miserably and God mirrored himself in the life of Jesus, that knowing him and studying him we might be transformed into the same image, from glory to glory."

"Look at the product of his transforming power. Notice the twelve members of his cabinet. Within thirty years they had attacked the legalism of Moses, the sensualism of Diana, the marble gods of Athens and the iron gods of Rome. They were not men of genius. There was just a new dynamic in them."

"Livingston bowed by the side of the African dying with disease because he had learned the sympathy of Jesus. The stabbardness of Saul was transformed into the apostle Paul."

"This same power transformed Jean Valjean until he went and took his place in the prison by the side of the one who had been arrested in his stead, and his face was transformed like that of Moses'."

First United Presbyterian

The sermon Sabbath morning at the First United Presbyterian church delivered by the pastor, the Rev. E. G. McKibben, was based on Mark 14:30 "And they knew not what to answer him."

"Unrepentant sinners will be without excuse for their failure to accept Jesus Christ," he said, "and Christians will not be able to answer him for their failure to live up to their light."

In the evening the pastor delivered the fourth and final number of the series on Angels. The first topic was "The Angels"; the second "Angel's Food"; the third "Angel's Songs". The fourth was on "The Services of the Angels."

For the first two thousand years of the world's history there is very little account of this great and interesting order of rational beings," the pastor stated. "For the last two thousand years they have neither been seen nor heard. During the second two thousand years they occupied a large place in the affairs of God's kingdom. The law was given by the dispensation of angels and the gospel dispensation was ushered in by them. Under three heads we can group their service to humanity."

"Their military service comes first. Angels are warlike beings. They are mighty, youthful and when occasion serves of finer countenance. Pilate's soldiers were seared stiff at the sight of the angel of the resurrection. They are bold, swift and fully armed. They are also under a competent leader, Michael the archangel. Their first battle was in heaven, what the dragon warred and his angels and Michael and his angels. And Satan was cast out. Of this war there are no details. Its history is not available. The angels are the champions of the cause of God. Angels led the host of Israel from Egypt to Canaan. Our Lord had twelve legions of angels at instant command. And the final battle, the battle of Armageddon, is to be fought under the leadership of Michael. They also protect God's people. The angel of Jehovah accompanied round about those that fear him and delivereth them."

"Their services as messengers might be placed second. The word angel means messenger. Of this department Gabriel seems to be the head. They explain visions and dreams and foretell future events and announce to men the fulfillment of age old prophecies. It was Gabriel that told Zacharias of the birth of John the Baptist; to Mary the birth of our Lord; and very like. Continued on Page Four

BIBLE THOUGHT

FOR TODAY

The Resurrection:—Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me shall never die.
John 11:25, 26.

Prayer:—Lord, we thank thee that we live, because thou livest.

Saving the Roads

State highway officials have taken steps to safeguard stone and gravel roads from heavy traffic when the frost starts going out of the ground in the spring, and instructions have been issued to all district engineers, superintendents and road patrolmen that the same rules and regulations enforced last year will again be followed.

Highway people do not expect any serious amount of breaking up of roads this year largely due to the continued maintenance and also to the fact that there was little rain during the fall and winter when the roads were freezing. However, it is possible that some weak places will be developed. In such event heavy hauling will be prohibited at a time when they would cut under such traffic, and arrangements have been completed for immediate repairs when weak spots develop.

The same policy as that adopted by the state officials is followed by the county highway superintendent and his assistants, and as a result,
there are few bad places on Rush county roads. Any other method of dealing with the road situation at this season of the year would be expensive to the taxpayers and would retard passenger car traffic seriously.

Common Sense Facts

A merchant doesn't spend his money for advertising merely to see his name in print.

He is too much of a business man

Pimples

You will be startled how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S.S.S.

PIMPLES are the first thing one notices in another person's face.
It is too often cruel in its misjudgment. It judges from what it sees on the outside. Pimples are easy to get rid of. More red-cells! That is what you need when you see pimples starting at you in the mirror. Red-cells mean clear, pure, rich blood. They mean clear, ruddy, lovable complexions. They mean nerve power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. They mean freedom from ever from pimples, from blackhead pest, from boils, from eczema and skin eruptions; from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-blood-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us.
S.S.S. will aid Nature in building them for you! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.
Start taking S.S.S. today. Its medical ingredients are purely vegetable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

to part with his dollars unless, there is a good prospect of obtaining a legitimate return upon his investment.

He doesn't advertise goods that he can't recommend, because he knows that you can't fool all of the people all of the time, and that such a policy would eventually put him out of business.

He doesn't gouge his customers, because he knows that they would soon go elsewhere and buy for less money, and that would be the end of him.

It is reasonable to presume, then,
that when he does advertise an article, that article is worth having and the price is within reason.

When you buy from a local merchant, that merchant's reputation for square dealing is behind the goods you buy.

Keep these common sense facts in mind when you go to buy and make the advertisements your guide, and you will make no mistake.

Good News From Abroad

Italy, according to reliable reports, will soon seek a hearing regarding the funding of her debt to the United States.

Her statesmen apparently have observed the good accruing to England in acknowledging her debt and making arrangements to pay.

The action of Great Britain and Poland in funding their debts to the United States, put them on the road back to prosperity.

This should be evidence enough to French statesmen that if France desires to prosper, she must do the honorable thing and take a definite step towards repaying the money she owes this country.

FIFTEEN YEARS

From Daily Republican
Wednesday, Feb. 16, 1910

The Rushville high school basketball team is "laying up" for the Shelbyville five which they will meet on the Graham school building gymnasium floor Friday night to make amends for the humiliating defeat which they received at the hands of the Shelby county lads last Friday night.

"Eleemosynary"—That's the word that put the spelling bee at the St.
Paul's M. E. church last night out of the running, or they would have been spelling yet. Prof. Scholl was the only one left out of his team
while Mrs. Minnie Abercrombie, Mrs.
V. C. Bodine and Mrs. Johnson were standing on the other side. Then the word "Eleemosynary" was given out and they began to scratch their heads.

Orlando Randall, county superintendent of schools, today called attention to the fact that next year drawing and music would be taught in all the certified schools of the county as one of the required subjects.

Miss Florence Hunt and Marg-

Prof. H. B. Wilson, English in-

The most charming social event of the winter season was the party given by Mr. and Mrs. William P. Jay, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Bliss and
Mr. and Mrs. Harrie O. Jones at the Social club house last night. About one hundred and fifty guests were present, including several from a distance.

Mrs. William Elder and two children left yesterday evening for their home in Fleshing, South Dakota, after being the guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Warren P. Elder in North Julian street for several days.

Miss Anna Stearns went to Indianapolis to attend the wedding of a friend tonight and will remain there the guest of friends and relatives until Saturday.

Miss Bertha Lee, of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Laura Murphy of Indianapolis are visiting here with Miss Bessie Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Tucker of Indianapolis were here yesterday evening for the dance at the Social club and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Bliss.

Amendment is Accepted

(Marion Star)

"Our idea of a miracle," remarks the Cincinnati Enquirer, "is for a President who believes in economy

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—A pair of the softest, silkiest kind of velvet gloves are an essential part of a presidential private secretary's wardrobe, but it is equally essential that there shall be a pair of iron hands inside them.

Everett Sanders of Indiana, who will succeed C. Bascom Sloop as private secretary to President Coolidge on March 4, is reputed to have the necessary equipment, sartorially and anatomically.

Of Sanders' ability as a salesman this column already has spoken, but a presidential private secretary also must be a diplomat of diplomats.

He mustn't offend anybody but frequently he must do and say things that are calculated to give offense.

He must know everybody and all about everybody. He mustn't let anybody "get to"
the president who oughtn't to
"get to" him, but he mustn't make the mistake of preventing anybody from "getting to" him who ought to do so.

He must be as smooth as silk to the people he lets in and he must make those whom he keeps out like it.

He must be par excellence a politician—a "fixer."

He must be supremely loyal.
He has at least as difficult, delicate and fully as important a job

as any cabinet member, but he must manage to keep himself inconspicuous—to efface himself.

EVERETT SANDERS ought to fill the bill.

He has been, for some time, to all appearances, just an ordinary "man of color" congressional man from Terre Haute, Ind., but when you come to ask questions about him among his fellow legislators, you discover that they all like him and that, without making any fuss about it, he has a lot of influence.

Sanders was the son of a Hoosier clergyman. He is 43 years old.

He has served in the 55th, 67th and 68th Congresses, but did not seek re-election to the 68th, although it was conceded he would have had a walk-away.

He was among those mentioned as a vice presidential possibility at the Cleveland Republican convention.

The administration wanted Sloop on account of his political skill and experience, especially in the south, for he is one of that rare species—a southern Republican.

Having done his work and done it well, it has been known for some time that he wanted to get out of office.

Besides, his relations with Senator William M. Butler, Republican national committee chairman, have not been the most cordial.

FOURTH NUMBER ON THE WINTER COURSE

"Play Ball" Clark, Who Has Been at Rush County Chautauque, to be at Little Flatrock

ENTERTAINER AND HUMORIST

The fourth number of the winter lyceum course sponsored by the Little Flatrock Christian church, will be held Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock, and Henry Clark, a noted lecturer, known as "Play Ball"
Clark, will be the speaker.

Mr. Clark comes to the church well recommended and he is no stranger in this county, as he appeared at the Rush County Chautau-que a few years ago. He has several lectures, and will pick one of the following: "Stop, Look and Listen,"
"Who Does Your Thinking?" and
"Let Us Smile."

Mr. Clark is a great entertainer and humorist, and each of his lectures carries with them a deep meaning that is bound to leave a good impression and serves a definite purpose.

At the former numbers of the lyceum course, large crowds have attended, and it is expected that Mr.
Clark will even prove to be a better drawing card than any of the former numbers.

FINISHES SERMON

ly he is to be credited with announcing the birth of Jesus to the shepherds. An angel encouraged the Saviour as he suffered in Gethsemane and Paul when he was down cast over the adverse conditions at Corinth.

"Their present day service might be given a third place. Are they not all ministering spirits sent forth to do service in behalf of all those that shall inherit salvation?" Although they are unseen and unheard today, yet there is warrant to believe that their work is very real and their service very necessary. We may think of them as restraining Satan and his emissaries. The devil is more than a match for unaided human nature. He overthrew the first Adam in Eden. He caused the second Adam to sweat, as it were, in blood in Gethsemane. He deceived Judas and caused Peter to deny his Master and Thomas to doubt and "all to forsake him and flee. Thank God every day for angelic defenders against his power. They also protect God's people against danger.
These invisible warriors, these spiritual guardians, these winged messengers of the skies enable us to walk in safety amidst danger."

"For he gives his angels charge concerning us." What strength and courage and endurance does such help give to the Christian soldiers, as he fights the good fight of faith."

"The angels are our fellow servants, interested in the same matters, carrying out the same program obedient to the same Lord.
And as we are loyal to Him, so will they be to us. Their last service is to bear us to our heavenly home.
The case of Lazarus is an instance of customary thing. He died and was carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom, and at the end of the age our Lord will send forth his angels to gather his elect from the four quarters of the earth. And if you are God's child, a convoy of angels will meet you, beyond the portal of death to bear you home."

Only three more games remain on the schedule this year. Now that the Lions are back in their stride, the thing to do is to win 'em all, and keep up the old fight clear to the end.

Carthage lost a couple of games over the week end. Moscow trounced them Friday night, and on Saturday night the Knightstown team had a hard time winning over them. Knightstown has the best team in their history, and held Newcastle to a close score on the week before.

Manilla couldn't stand the attack of that Greensburg team Friday night, and the Tree City five won out by a big score 48 to 15.

That wooden horse of the Newcastle Trojans sure looked real Friday night, when they took the Tin Camels on the Shelbyville floor, 34 to 28 in an overtime game.

Newcastle's slogan, "Dent those tin Camels," sure worked.

And lest you have forgotten that slogan, "Nik Those Ikimiks" proved a good one for the second time this season.

Frankfort gave Alice of Vincennes a valentine Saturday. The score was 41 to 40. The Hot Dogs were getting revenge for that defeat handed them on the Vincennes floor.

That Vincennes team has played three close games in their last starts. First Washington came within one point, and then Friday, Central of Evansville came within four points. Connersville beat Evansville and Rushville beat Connersville, and this sorta looks like some of these teams up here are not so far behind.

The results of games recently in this part of the state don't look like the best team won the district cup, in the tourney last month at Connersville.

After that tourney, Markin' 'em of Newcastle didn't like the all-tourney selection, and said he would make his selection later, which he did after Newcastle defeated Connersville one point in Newcastle. Here is the latest all tourney selection, compiled by Hittin' 'Em.

Arbuckle, forward, Rushville. Newbold, forward, Rushville. Davison, forward, Rushville. Lakin, center, Rushville. Osborne, guard, Rushville. McNamara, guard, Rushville. Cherry, guard, Rushville. Miller, guard, Rushville.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

day night 53 to 22 at Franklin. The Connersville team was followed by four traction cars loaded with rooters, but the team could not withstand the pace of the Franklin bunch.

The report of the game did not appear in the Star Sunday, because it was stated that everyone in Franklin went to Indianapolis Saturday night to see the big game between Franklin college and Butler, and Connersville had the gym to themselves.

TAIL LIGHTS

STOP SILER AND HEIM ON THAT CARTHAGE BUNCH FRIDAY.

Richmond sure stepped on Columbus Friday night, 26 to 22. Now the next big event will be Connersville at Richmond this week.

Tuff luck. Connersville plays Richmond in the curtain raiser to a college game, and every game so far this season played as a curtain raiser, has meant defeat, because these high school teams are not used to being the "preliminary" attraction.

ANANIAS HIMSELF

Hittin' 'em said yesterday that the thirteenth was his lucky day that he got married that day and hadn't lost a battle yet. Speakin' of, Ananias clubs he ought to be a charter member—that is about that not losing a battle stuff. We'll leave it to any married man in the house—we mean any married man anywhere.

—Side Lights, C-ville.

Many Rushville people saw the four car special traction train go through Rushville Saturday afternoon enroute to Franklin from Connersville. Judging from the hour's time that was wasted in the yards at the east edge of Rushville, people down town began to think that they were ashamed to go through, and were waiting for it to get dark.

KEEP UP THE PEP THIS WEEK AND LET'S CARRY THROUGH THE OLE FIGHT UNTIL THE END.

And there is a Friday the thirteenth next month also.

COLLINS FOUND

on preliminary examination believe he is dead.

Drs. C. E. Francis of Bowling Green, Ky., Dr. M. M. Moss of the Kentucky state militia and Dr. William Hazlett, Chicago surgeon, will go down the shaft to examine Collins, it was announced.

A few moments before this announcement Homer Collins, a brother of the entombed man, made an effort to enter the rescue pit, but was turned back by the militia.

Soldiers with fixed bayonets were placed around the scene of consultation.

First word of the discovery, Carmichael said, reached him at 2:45 p. m.

A fourth physician, Dr. C. C. Howard of Glasgow, joined the others in their inspection trip down the shaft.

Workmen clung to their tools after the discovery of Collins' body and dirt came from the mouth of the shaft in bucket's full as the pitmen dug away the debris that surrounded the prisoner of seventeen days.

Carmichael, Posey, Donhardt and Funkhouse gathered to draft a formal report. The doctors have not yet descended the shaft.

KNIGHTSTOWN, CARTHAGE PUT ON A CLOSE CONTEST

Carthage puts on Rally Which is Cut Off by Final Gun Shot—First Half Sec-Saw Affair

ANDERSON SCORES 11 FIELDS

Knightstown high was victor in a great battle with Carthage Saturday night at Carthage, winning by eight points in the last few minutes of play, 32 to 24.

The first half was a sec-saw affair, Knightstown finally leading at half time, 16 to 14. In the second half the visitors gained a lead of 12 points at 32 to 20, but Carthage caged two more field goals and was putting on a rally to cut down the lead when the gun sounded.

Anderson, visiting center, scored seven field goals and their back guard, Boyer, played exceptionally well. Siler sank five field goals for Carthage and Teirick and Renegar performed well on the defense.

Both teams had played on the previous night, Carthage being defeated by Moscow 44 to 26 at Blue Ridge, and Knightstown had defeated Mooreland by a safe margin.

Carthage is preparing for Rushville this week, and they will put up a big fight to win the game here.

"It should not be forgotten," he added, "that the fowl pest virus is carried inside the egg and on the egg shells, and if we should allow the sale of eggs from counties where we are not sure is free of fowl pest, the disease might be carried to the poultry."

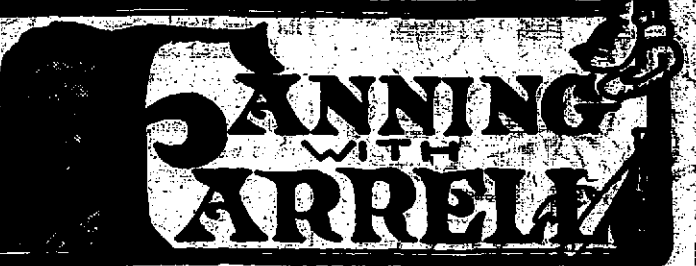

The disinfecting of the premises and equipment of every poultry dealer will begin Tuesday. The dealers are requested to have their equipment and places of business clean by Tuesday noon so that the actual work of disinfecting, which will be done under federal inspection, can be accomplished with the greatest possible dispatch.

Dr. Wickwire estimated today that if there were no unnecessary delays, the disinfecting should be completed in two days. After that, and the survey is completed in every township of the county, there will be some consideration given to tightening or removing the quarantine.

Dr. Todd finished the survey in Jackson township Saturday evening and was assigned to Posey township to help Dr. Gordon finish the survey of that township.

Dr. Hall, who is working in Washington township, and Dr. Catt, in Noble township, expected to finish up by this evening, and they will be detailed to other townships where the work has not yet been completed.

Johnson Gave Stipped

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Feb. 16—During the last meeting of the major league club owners, the magnates sought to appease the outraged feelings of Commissioner Landis by jamming a muzzle into the mouth of Ban Johnson, President of the American League, who took a rap at the dignity of the Commissioner by criticizing the way in which he handled the Giant scandal.

There had been an agreement, it seems that the Commissioner was never to be criticized publicly for any action he should take in the administration of baseball, which in the light of recent events seems to consist entirely of keeping players straight.

Johnson had engaged previously in several mild and subtle cracks at the former jurist who had succeeded him as the czar of baseball. But the feelings of the Commissioner were not aroused to the point of retaliation until the winter meetings of 1923.

The judge at that time was reported to have opened a verbal barrage against Johnson which ended in a dramatic climax when Landis smacked his contract down on the table with the ultimatum—"Tear it up if you want that Johnson instead of me."

The magnates voted that they didn't want that Johnson in place of the judge and to all it seemed that the Ban had been ushered to a seat several rows in the rear of the Judge.

Johnson didn't say much last season until the Dolan-O'Connell scandal broke just before the world's series. Ban, then let out an awful roar. He said a lot of headline things, among which was the expression of an opinion that the Giants had been mixed up in nearly every one of baseball's scandals;

scattered sections and the outbreak in Indianapolis in 1915 and '16 was one of the worst. There is none now in Indiana because we cleaned it up right then.

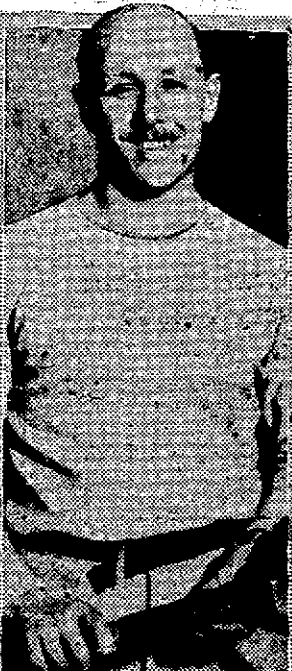

"We are proceeding along safe lines now, just as we did in the foot and mouth outbreak. We are going to clean up the fowl pest, too. We are not going to allow it to get away from us. All we ask is the same splendid co-operation that we have had in the past. The United States is the only country that does not now have the foot and mouth disease. That is because that whenever it appears, it is cleaned out right."

that the facts were being covered up and that the world's series should be called off. Landis wouldn't call off the series, and Johnson didn't attend any of the games, although the team of his close friend, Clarke Griffith, was representing the American League.

Landis then demanded action and he got it—in a way. The National League took a sock at Johnson without mentioning his name in a set of resolutions intended as a severe reprimand. The American League took an indirect sock at its president by a resolution endorsing all that Landis had done in handling the scandal and by assuring him of its support in the future.

The American League then appointed a committee to make peace with Landis and assure him that if Johnson ever opened his mouth again that he would be kicked out of a job that is worth $30,000 a year. The two leagues then got together and told Landis that the unwelcome person of Johnson would be removed from his immediate vicinity and Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit Tigers and Vice President of the American League, would take Johnson's place on the advisory council.

Ban, it was felt, had been muzzled for good. No more criticism of baseball could come from the intimate circles of the magnates and all the things that the baseball writers might complain about would not hurt the game, as the fans are all-forgiving gents with a faith in the integrity of baseball that can't be assailed.

The muzzle that had been stuffed into the mouth of Johnson however, must have been made of mosquito netting. The Ban remained silent for a time and then the old-peaking machinery started in motion with a few sparks.

Johnson was quoted from Excelsior Springs as saying that as far as Landis was concerned he didn't consider his existence and that he was going to ignore him in the future.

WILLIAM J. OLIPHANT IS DEAD

Former Fayette County Man, Related Here, Expires in Gary

William J. Oliphant, age sixty-four years, a former Fayette county man, died at his home in Gary, Ind., Saturday, and funeral services were held there today. He was a brother of Mrs. Ella Neutzenhelzer of this city.

Mr. Oliphant was born and reared at Nultown, south of Connersville and attended school at Spiceland academy, Earlham college and Valparaiso university. For a number of years was a traveling salesman and for the past few years had been proprietor of the Gary hotel.

Besides the sister living here, Mr. Oliphant is survived by the widow, a son and daughter. He had visited here frequently.

All of the flocks have been destroyed.

Survey of all flocks in the nine counties in eastern Indiana in the quarantined area continued today in the government's fight to stamp out the malady. Veterinarians continued their sweep on the nine counties in an effort to find any new outbreaks and to check the spread by killing all chickens in the infected flocks.

Five Feet of Solid Rock Bars Way to Collins' Cave Prison

phone up word the moment Collins was reached.

It was estimated that the natural passageway which will lead to Collins was six or seven feet away and five feet lower than the floor of the lateral heading.

The lateral drift is now being sunk at an angle of 45 degrees to reach the cavern.

Early in the night H. T. Carmichael, in charge of rescue work, said the probability was that Collins would be reached Tuesday but the progress made by the night shifts gave hopes that the rescuers will break through earlier.

If the slide which cut off the natural entrance to Collins' prison freed the explorer from the boulder which pinioned his foot, it will take only a short time to remove him, rescuers said. In event he is still held fast by the boulder, it will take five or six hours to free him from its vice-like grasp.

Repeated sound tests assured the diggers they were nearing the victim. Picked miners crawled into the original entrance to the cave to the point where it was blocked by slides and listened to tappings by men at the bottom of the rescue shaft. They said it would break through near the spot where Collins lies.

Other days have been named as Collins day of delivery. Hopes have been raised to sink again as the rescuers encountered new and disheartening difficulties.

Evil fortune outdid itself to place obstacles in the path of the stubborn rescue crews. Drenching rains and slides of dirt and rock at the bottom of the shaft practically stopped operations Saturday night when the goal seemed almost momentarily at hand.

But this should be Collins' day as prying tools of weary pit men probe closer and closer to his rock prison.

Increasing signs have been noted, Carmichael said, that the shaft has wormed itself way into the cavernous sections like that which the engineers believe immediately surrounds Collins in the spot where he has lain for nearly 17 days.

The shaft proceeded on schedule Sunday. In the face of discouraging obstacles the six foot square tube was driven toward its goal.

Sweating, dirt-stained men shoveled into a bucket the slate and clay and rock clipped from the blank face of the shaft. A wheezing engine carried the bucket to the surface and lowered it again. The tunnel was advancing. Twice digging stopped while other dirt-stained men built about them a wall of timber to prevent further slides.

"There is no reason to believe we will not reach Collins with 36 hours conditional on the present rate of progress over-estimated distance," read an official bulletin issued at 9 a. m. Sunday.

Thirty-six hours from that time would be 9 o'clock Monday night. The shaft is progressing on schedule.

Success may be delayed again, but not for long. The shaft has been stubborn in its advance and to workmen and officials it seems every imaginable difficulty has been encountered.

The rescue effort has become a stubborn attempt to advance the tunnel inch by inch toward a predetermined goal. And only a few feet remain.

Dr. Wm. Hazlett, Chicago surgeon, re-checked his preparations to enter the cave when the diggers break through and administer a stimulant to Collins if he still lives.

FIRE LOSS OF $20

A spark or defective flue is believed to have set fire to the roof of the home of Charles H. Brown, 226 West Fourth street, Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. A small hole was burned, and the blaze was quickly extinguished upon arrival of the fire department. The loss was estimated at $20. The house is owned by H. S. Havens, and is a double, occupied by Mr. Brown and his father-in-law, I. L. Clifford.

WOMEN OF 1925 REGARDED AS THE BEST DRESSED IN HISTORY

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for United Press)
New York, Feb. 16—"Whoa! do women dress for?"

Here is a question that has never been solved and perhaps never will be—the reason being that women can never be taken generally. Some women dress to please their husbands; some dress to please other women's husbands; some dress to spit other women and some dress to satisfy their own sweet selves.

Why does a peacock preen his tailfeathers? That's the answer.

We are not interested in "why women dress" but in the fact that they do dress better today than ever before in the history of the world. Fabrics have never been so beautiful and the intricacies of gownmaking have been developed until clothes have ceased to be mere garments of utility, but have become objects of art.

The best dressed women today are not the light-headed heartbreakers of motion picture vamp style. Ah no! The best dressed women are those whose husbands have nice fat pocketbooks and equally well dressed are the moneyed sisters.

The vamp is seldom dressed in good taste. Not so long ago every small town had a few females who out-dressed the other women of the town and startled them with their eccentric hats and frocks, their white fox furs and silken hose. Women on upper Main Street gossiped about them but never spoke to them.

It was not always that their morals were at fault, but nice women didn't approve of their stylish clothes.

Where are these small town vamps today? It's the self-same nice women who have laid them on the shelf. The bankers' wife, the butcher's wife and the baker's wife have grown to be the style leaders of the town. Women who seemed middle aged ten years ago have blossomed out into fascinating thirty-five-year-olds. And it's modern dressing and cosmetics that have made this possible.

No! We are not interested in "why women dress" but we certainly get a kick out of the fact that they do dress, and preen and furnish our streets with silken ankles, rouged lips and beauty.

Married women are seldom jealous of the clothes of other married women. It's the single girls whose slenderness and modish clothes make them wish they didn't have to divide their spending money between the household needs and their own desires. Whether to buy new curtains for the house or some new feminine furbelow is a constant bugbear to the married woman of limited allowance. One hesitates to suggest that curtains should take second place, since most men adore pretty homes, but a pretty home with a poorly dressed mistress isn't always a success, whereas a well-dressed wife can cover a multitude of household sins by appearing lovely in the eyes of her husband. Somehow the average woman of today manages to keep the homefires burning well enough and to keep beautiful at the same time.

We speak of married women and of girls when we speak of fashions. There seems to be none of the women left who were formerly termed "old maids." And the reason we have so few unmarried women of middle age is clothes, bobbed hair and cosmetics. Added to this is the fact that women no longer deem it proper to sit at home and knit chairbacks. The modern girl gets out into the world, becomes a part of it and of its fashions and makes herself interesting in mind and in dress to all mankind. Coy and corseted ladies are no more and the modern female is indeed "more deadly than the male" when it comes to plumage.

Paul Poirer advances the theory that women will eventually wear trousers. He claims that the simplification of female costume is leading to the wearing of trousers. The masculine trend in bobbed hair cuts, pajamas, knickers, etc., might point that way, but if trousers become a feminine style, it's a cinch they'll be short ones, as women will never accept a style which does away with the showing of their silken ankles. Trousers are a bit too modest for the Caucasian races. It was the Chinese and Oriental races who conceived the idea of putting their womenfolk in trousers and they did so because they knew trousers were less enticing than skirts.

TALKS AT PLUM CREEK

Clyde Gordon spoke on "Life of Lincoln and His Contribution to Our Religion," at the Plum Creek Christian church Sunday morning, and Adrian Eckart spoke on "George Washington and What He Did for Past and Present Christianity." Both talks were interesting. Every member of the Sunday school was present and the Rev. E. B. Scofield of Indianapolis was a guest.
